

SSFI CELEBRATES READING WEEK

In its effort to emphasize the importance of reading among its students, SSFI celebrated Reading Week last September 27 to October 1. With the theme "Hungry for Books", the Reading Week Committee carried out the following activities: storytelling days for the preschool students, educational field trip for the primary students and boovie watching for grades four, five and six. Scholastics Books was also invited to hold a book fair that lasted for a week. The preschool and primary students enjoyed the time with Clifford, Scholastics Books official mascot, as he visited each classroom for picture takings.

The preschool students had sumptuous days when they were served with a read-aloud story time shared by invited book readers. On the first day, the preschoolers heard stories from Colonel Jun Parcon, Mr. Ferdinand Recio, and his son Enrique Recio (Grade 1-Joy). On the second day, Teacher Liezel, Tim Custard of IBC, and Iman Lim (Grade 4) were the assigned book readers of the day.

The primary students had their best time of the year when they visited the National Library in Manila City where they got treats like storytelling & puppet show. They also got the chance to see archeological collections at the National Museum and had time to explore the different surprises that Museo Pambata has.

Intermediate students were delighted to spend their afternoon with Flint Lockwood, the main character in the movie Chance of Meatballs. It was a novel that was adapted into a movie.

With these happenings, students couldn't help but look forward to another Reading Week next year.
